

LOST IN THE SURF COMPRESS OWNERS.

Henry Dean, a Traveling Man from Macon, Drowned in Florida.

JUDGE GEORGE W. GUSTIN BURIED

The Bar Association Meets—Samuel Combs Will Speak on Organized Labor—Amateurs Not Coming to Atlanta.

Macon, Ga., March 6.—(Special.)—The sad information has been received in Macon that Mr. Henry Dean, the traveling representative of the Winn-Johnson Company, of Macon, was drowned yesterday while surf bathing at Daytona, Fla. The telegram which conveyed the news to the Winn-Johnson Company gave no particulars of the unfortunate occurrence. After quite a search the body was recovered and will be sent for interment to America, where the father of the deceased resides. Mr. Dean traveled Florida for the Winn-Johnson Company and had been in the employ of the firm about two years. He formerly traveled for the Macon firm of Chapman & Park. He was twenty-seven years old, unmarried, and highly esteemed by all who knew him.

Judge Gustin's Funeral.

The funeral service of Judge George W. Gustin was held from St. Paul's church this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. There was an immense concourse of citizens of all classes in attendance. The members of the bar occupied seats that had been specially assigned them. The ceremonies were very solemn and impressive. The elegant casket containing the remains was laden with beautiful flowers, the offerings of love and friendship. After the service at the church a long procession of mourners followed the body to the cemetery.

This morning at 10 o'clock there was a meeting of the Macon Bar Association in the superior courtroom to take action on the death of Judge Gustin. Colonel Isaac Hardman was chairman and Mr. A. W. Lane, secretary. Mr. H. F. Strobel moved that the members of the bar attend the funeral services in a body, and that the chairman appoint at his leisure a committee of ten to draft resolutions and prepare a memorial on the life and character of the deceased and report at a meeting of the bar to be called later. The motion was carried.

Judge Speer adjourned the United States court and Judge Ross adjourned the city court in respect to the memory of the deceased. The superior court adjourned Saturday and was not expected to convene today, as Judge Hardman is absent from the city, consequently this tribunal could take no action today on the death of Judge Gustin.

He Has Accepted.

Today Mr. James B. Hall received a telegram from Rev. Dr. R. R. White, of Bedford, N. Y., announcing that he has accepted the call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Macon, tendered him two weeks ago, as the successor of Rev. W. B. Jennings, resigned. It is not definitely known when Dr. White will come to Macon. He is an able and eloquent preacher—a man of fine appearance and attractive manners. He is thirty-two years old, married, but has no children.

Will Speak in Macon.

Mr. Samuel Geraghty, ex-president of the American Federation of Labor, will deliver an address at the courthouse in Macon on Thursday night on the subject "Organized Labor—the Republic's Savior." The labor unions are preparing to give him a large audience and an enthusiastic reception. A committee of the unions is now at work making all the arrangements for his appearance in this city. Besides workingmen there will be a large audience of citizens generally.

Won't Play in Atlanta.

It is very probable that the Macon Amateurs will be unable to go to Atlanta and play "A Scrap of Paper." All arrangements had been made to present the performance under the auspices of the women's department of the Atlanta exposition, but one of the most important members of the cast will not be able to get off the coast.

Court Matters.

It was expected that argument would be resumed in the United States court this morning on the murderer in the bond case of Judge vs. Williams et al., but on account of the death of Judge Gustin, Judge Speer adjourned court for the day. As E. O. Smith, of Eastman, one of the counsel for the defendants, could not be present on court tomorrow, as he has to attend to the commission of a sale at Eastman, Judge Speer postponed the hearing of the argument until next Saturday, when Mr. W. B. Hill, of the Georgia bar, will appear for the defendants.

Messrs. Clifford Anderson and L. Z. Ross, of Atlanta, are in the city today on business in the court of ordinary.

A True Testimony.

Mr. James Geraghty died this morning at his home in this city on Fourth street. He was a true Irishman in every sense of the word, and his death is deeply regretted by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Mr. Geraghty was born in the province of Connaught, Ireland, forty-five years ago. He has lived in Macon some time. He was unmarried and a man of considerable property. He was very intelligent and a natural public orator. The funeral services will be held tomorrow, and the Rev. Emmet Club, of which he was a member, will attend to the body. Macon has lost a good citizen and a true and honorable man.

Newspaper Notes.

This morning work was commenced on the south Macon extension of the Consolidated street railway. The extension will be one mile. It will reach Hightower street, near the junction of the new end of Houston road, and will be a great improvement and convenience for the section through which it will pass.

The baseball team of the University of Mercer will play at Macon next Saturday. The game will doubtless be witnessed by a large crowd.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Anderson have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Velma Westchell, to Mr. Robert M. Smith on the afternoon of May 14th, at the First Baptist church.

COMING TO GEORGIA

A Convention Is To Be Held at Rome Next Week.

CHANGES TO COME UP FOR DISCUSSION

No New Developments in the Merchants' Bank Affairs—It Is Inconvenient To Depositors.

Rome, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—The In-Rome on Wednesday, May 15th, Dr. J. D. Turner, of Atlanta, is president and there are thirty-five compresses in Georgia and Alabama included in the association.

There will be a large representation from all parts of the two states and the manufacturers and business men of Rome are looking forward to the meeting with much interest, as questions of great importance to this city and section will be under discussion.

Rome received upward of 100,000 bales of cotton last season and the next season will handle fully as much, or more, and, of course, any action on the part of the compress men will be of the most vital importance.

Of course the representatives of the various cities and towns will be shown every courtesy and will be handsomely entertained during their stay in Rome.

A Big Success.

The woman's edition of The Tribune has proved a flattering success, nearly 8,000 having been taken in by the ladies in the way of advertising and for the sale of papers.

The money will be used to rehabilitate the Young Men's Library after the expenses, limited to actual cost of getting out the paper, are paid, and will put that enterprise on its feet in fine shape.

A Rumored change, which is very well founded that Captain R. G. Clark, one of the wealthiest citizens of Rome, has purchased the interest of the late S. F. Howell in the Lowell Cotton Company.

This is one of the wealthiest cotton companies in the south, having branches at Memphis, Little Rock, Fort Worth and other places, with an office in Boston, Mass., and headquarters here.

Captain Clark is a capitalist who has an abiding faith in Rome and to whom the city owes much. His enterprise is largely attributable to the location of the Massachusetts cotton mill at this point, in conjunction with Mr. Howell, which has made it so much deplored in Rome.

The Merchants' Bank.

There is nothing new in the Merchants' bank matter so far as has been developed. The examination is still at work going on the books and accounts of the bank and it is hoped that matters will be set right in a few days.

In the meantime a good many of the depositors are looking up, but several business men are accepting checks on the Merchants bank at face value, so strong is their confidence in the outcome of its affairs.

On Saturday evening Mr. Sam Tully, one of the most prominent young men of Rome, and Miss Hattie Gillingham, daughter of one of the leading families of Floyd, will be wedded at the home of the bride's father, near the city.

The Mrs. Dougherty suing the Keely institute for damages is not the widow, but the mother of Dock Dougherty. The matter is being argued in court. The wife is able to refute all the adverse testimony of the Keely institute, which is a misstatement. More testimony will be taken this week on the side of the defendant and will be very strong in its character.

SMALL BOY DROWNED.

He Was in Bathing with His Brother.

Athens, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Toombs Watkins, a little white boy, about eleven years old, was drowned in the Oconee river at the Georgia factory yesterday afternoon.

He and his elder brother, Toke Watkins, were swimming in the river. Toke started to swim across and Toombs followed him. The little fellow could not hold out and drowned before help could reach him.

Toke Watkins, the boy who didn't drown, is the same boy who several years ago was sinking in the mouth of Tall creek and this city and was rescued by the C. C. Lester, who after pushing him up on the bank, sank into the quicksand and was drowned.

Bishop Gallor To Visit Here.

Bishop Thomas M. Gallor, of Tennessee, will visit the Episcopal parish here next month. He will come on June 4th and will deliver a lecture. Bishop Gallor has quite a number of friends in Athens who will delight to welcome him.

The Permanent Receiver.

Judge Hutchins has appointed Mr. Robert S. Howard as permanent receiver for the Athens Oil and Fertilizer Company of the Athens oil field. Mr. Howard is a man of the works and will manage the affairs of the company with a view to the best interests of all parties concerned.

Princeton Faculty To Be Sold.

On the first Tuesday in June the Princeton factory will be sold by Sheriff Wier in public outcry. This is done to straighten out the affairs of the Princeton factory. The present management, Mr. John S. Cowles, lessee, is quite ready to accept of the offer. Princeton is paying a net profit on the work that is being done. The fact is that the business here is talking seriously over the proposition to put into operation 100,000 spindles during the next year.

Memorial Day Is Madison was celebrated by an address from Hon. H. H. Carlton, of this city. During the day a Confederate Soldiers' Association was organized among the old veterans of Morgan county, and in honor of their distinguished guest it was named after the late General Morgan.

Dr. Carlton estimates very highly the completion of the new bridge over the Chattahoochee. Governor Atkinson is expected over soon to look into the affairs of the Northeastern railroad.

Professor S. A. C. Everett, the hypnotist, is attracting considerable attention here.

William B. Hornblower To Address the State Bar Association.

HE IS A WELL-KNOWN NEW YORKER

He Was Twice Appointed Associate Justice by President Cleveland—Twice He Was Turned Down.

Mr. William B. Hornblower, of New York, who has not been known to fame and misfortune, has accepted an invitation tendered him to make the annual address before the Georgia State Bar Association in October.

The invitation was extended to Mr. Hornblower by Secretary Aiken, of the association, who was acting under the direction of the executive committee, of which Mr. Alex Smith is chairman. The acceptance reached Secretary Aiken Sunday and yesterday morning Chairman Smith was notified.

Mr. Hornblower is known in New York as one of the cleverest of New York lawyers and an eloquent speaker. He has made for himself a splendid reputation as a man with fine address and as a speaker is frequently in demand. He has a number of personal friends who are members of the Georgia state association and there are several that have heard him speak upon one or two occasions.

In language, Mr. Hornblower is fluent. He is a man of vigorous earnestness and has a charm of manner that is decidedly pleasant. He is thoughtful, too, and a great deal may be expected of him. The subject of his address will be named by him later, but whatever he may decide upon will be made interesting by the handling and the association members are looking forward to a treat.

Mr. Hornblower is well known in connection with an effort once made by President Cleveland to appoint him an associate justice of the supreme bench. This was several months ago, and Mr. Hornblower was turned down by the senate.

COMING TO GEORGIA

Major Campbell Wallace Sleeps Peacefully in Oakland Cemetery.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD YESTERDAY

A Large Congregation at the Central Presbyterian Church—Dr. Strickler, Barnett and Butolph Officiating.

It is doubtful if Atlanta has ever seen a more impressive funeral occasion than the final obsequies at the Central Presbyterian church yesterday morning for the mortal remains of Major Campbell Wallace.

The congregation completely filled the auditorium of the church and many who were not able to procure seats downstairs resorted to the galleries. All men who had been associated with him, during the stormy days of reconstruction and little children who had gathered about him in his declining years to hear from his aged lips the tales of a grandfather, sat in the congregation and seemed to vie with each other in their grief for one whose life was the embodiment of all that was true and tender. The rank and file of the city's population gathered to pay a last tribute to the memory of the good man; business of every kind was forgotten and only the radiant deeds of a noble life were remembered.

Around the pulpit, in rich vernal profusion, a mass of exquisite white flowers exhorted their perfume and gave to the scene an eloquence of beauty. Spring lilacs, pale white roses, violets, evergreens, lilies, cedar branches and flowers of every kind were grouped together in the various elements of sorrow, faith, hope and immortality.

Among the designs were crosses, anchors, stars, crescents, hives, crabs, and all the varied and beautiful emblems that friendship usually selects to convey its tribute of sorrow.

The seats directly in front of the pulpit were reserved for the pastors and members of the afflicted household.

Entering the Church.

At 11:30 o'clock the funeral procession entered the door of the church, preceded by the officiating clergymen. These were Dr. G. B. Strickler, the pastor of the church; Dr. E. H. Barnett, the pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Dr. Butolph, of Marietta, Ga., a personal friend of the deceased and for quite a while his pastor.

Then came the pallbearers directly in front of the casket, which rested upon an elegant caisson of black horses. The pallbearers were all descendants of Major Campbell Wallace. They were Messrs. Wallace, McPherson, of Nashville, Tenn.; C. B. Wallace, Jr., of Joseph, N. Y.; William L. Wallace, of Jacksonville, Fla.; R. O. Wallace, C. W. Martin, C. B. Brumby, of Athens; Nesbit Winfield, of Chattanooga; F. A. Jones, of Marietta; and the members of the family next followed.

Dr. J. B. Baird, the family physician and a warm personal friend of the deceased, followed the caisson. The eulogistic remarks of the church were supervised by Mrs. Baird and Mrs. E. A. Werner, assisted by quite a number of ladies.

Among the friends of Major Wallace in the congregation were Judge Logan E. Blackley, ex-Governor R. B. Bullock, Colonel A. E. Buck, Colonel L. M. Trammell, Hon. Allen Fort, Hon. Milton A. Chandler, Hon. H. H. Harts, Dr. John W. Heid, Dr. W. F. Cook, Dr. A. R. Holderby, Dr. J. N. Craig, Dr. T. F. Cleveland, Rev. L. B. Davis, Judge W. E. Evans, Judge John M. Pressor, W. W. McLaughlin, Messrs. W. F. Parkhurst, T. L. Langston, Stewart Woodson, W. F. Brewster, John Tyler Cooper, H. T. Inman, D. A. Beattie and others. The funeral service of the church occupied reserved seats to the left of the family.

"Jesus, Lover of My Soul" was the opening anthem rendered by the choir. It was sung with tender emotion and every heart was touched by the sweet harmony.

Dr. Strickler then read a number of comforting passages from the scriptures, beginning with the beautiful words of consolation addressed by the Saviour to his disciples in the little upper chamber. "Let not your hearts be troubled. Ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house there are many mansions. If I go and prepare a place for you, I will come and take you to myself, that where I am, you may be also. And whither I go, ye know the way." TO CANVASS THE CITY

Public Comfort Committee Decide Upon Prompt and Vigorous Action.

WILL YOU TAKE BOARDERS?

A Chief To Be Selected for the Public Comfort Bureau.

IT WILL BE A PERMANENT OFFICE

Strong Talks by Members of the Public Comfort Committee Yesterday—They Will Work with Energy.

"This question of accommodating the people who will come to the exposition is the most vital and important one that now concerns the exposition enterprise."

"The success of the exposition is assured beyond the shadow of a doubt. The people are coming in thousands."

"Here at home we realize the importance and magnitude of the exposition far less than the people of other sections. We will have vast crowds here."

"We must take up this question right here and right now, and say that the people who come to Atlanta to see our show will be comfortably provided for. Atlanta can and will do it."

These ringing words from Mr. G. T. Dodd, before the meeting of the joint committee charged with the duty of looking after the hotel problem, expressed the spirit of the meeting.

The committee took hold of the question in that energetic, determined manner which always characterizes Atlanta in dealing with an emergency.

The committee realized the necessity for prompt and effective action and took it. The meeting called to order yesterday afternoon in the assembly room at exposition headquarters by Chairman Foster Adair, of the public comfort committee.

There were present Messrs. F. P. Rice, S. M. Inman, H. M. Atkinson, President Charles A. Collier, James W. English, Jr., General James R. Lewis, Mr. Green T. Dodd and Mr. Cooper.

Chairman Adair outlined the former action of the committee and spoke of the question of canvassing the city for the purpose of finding out how many rooms there were vacant and available for hotel and boarding house uses.

"I am opposed to this proposed canvass. In the manner that has been proposed," said Mr. Adair, "it has been urged here that the work be done by the police and sanitary departments. This would not, in my opinion, be at all satisfactory. What we want is a system of canvassing the city, showing just exactly the number of houses that are vacant and that will accommodate exposition visitors. I think the work should be done by experienced and capable men."

"That is the correct view of this matter," said Mr. Rice. "We should take up this canvass right away, divide the city into eight or ten districts, assign a good man to each district and instruct him to make a thorough house to house canvass and get reliable information concerning the rooms that are available for our purposes."

"We want that in hand right away. We need it as the basis for our work. We want it in such shape that we can rely on it thoroughly."

"There are a great many Atlantians with good homes who would take boarders. A prominent citizen told me Saturday that he would take six boarders just to help the exposition."

"I heard a man say the same thing," said Mr. Collier. "And there are lots of them who feel that way about it."

"Yes," continued Mr. Rice, "it's a matter for Atlanta and all good Atlantians are ready to help. Captain English says here last week when we were discussing this question that he had four rooms at his home and would take boarders."

"All of us and our guests during the entire time of the exposition and this private entertainment will help a great deal."

Mr. Atkinson said he would like to know what practical use the result of the canvass would be put to. He didn't oppose the idea, but merely asked for information.

Mr. Inman thought that the matter should be thoroughly systematized and that the information gleaned through the canvass should be put into the hands of a public comfort official, whose duty it should be to look after the matter of supplying visitors with accommodations.

"We have got to get this matter on a business and working basis right now," said he. "It is time the work was started."

"We need a good, efficient head for the public comfort department and should establish that branch right now. We need a good systematic man who will take hold of this work, push it energetically and systematically and accomplish the results we want."

"He should be given a good, roomy office, an appropriation should be made to bear the expenses of the department, and he should be given good, competent assistants."

The entire board agreed to this view, and there was some discussion concerning the available applicants for the place. The talk resulted in no definite action, however.

Mr. Collier said there should be a chief for the public comfort department and that he should be an active, energetic, systematic man. The department required good work, and the present condition of affairs made the department the most important of the exposition just at present.

Mr. Inman called on Mr. Dodd to give his views concerning the matter. "Maybe he doesn't think the people are coming," said Mr. Inman.

Mr. Dodd, who had up to this time remained silent, now waxed eloquent. "The people are coming, and coming in hundreds," said he. "The fame of the exposition has spread everywhere, and the crowds are already waiting to swoop down upon this city."

"The great question of this exposition now is to take care of the people. It is our duty, and we must do it. If the people come here and fail to find accommodations they will go back and spread the news to the world that people cannot be taken care of here and the attendance will be ruined."

"Atlanta people do not fully realize to what extent this exposition has taken hold of the people. They are talking about it everywhere, and the people of all sections are preparing to come. What we should do right now is to make this canvass, find out what accommodations we may depend upon, put the matter in the hands of a competent official, and then go to work on the line that Mr. Inman has been laboring on, to secure the building of more hotels. That is my idea. The people are coming, and we must take care of them."

Mr. Inman said that he did not want to do anything that would interfere with the legitimate hotel interests of the city, but at the same time he felt that the work of providing more extensive accommodations would be in the nature of a relief to the hotels. He called on Mr. Joseph Thompson, of the Kimball House Company, for an expression concerning this statement.

Mr. Thompson said that he thought building should be encouraged. The hotels already established in Atlanta would be glad to see accommodation of every kind prepared for the exposition. He had not the slightest fear that the hotels already built would suffer from insufficient patronage.

Mr. Collier said that the hotels would be overrun, and that all of them wanted to see the exposition company given their relief in the shape of new buildings.

Mr. Inman said he would like to put the entire matter of hotel additions under the supervision of the hotels already in operation in Atlanta. He said that very naturally the people would come to the hotels that are known to the travelers, and that the hotels could assign them to the rooms in the temporary structures. He thought the hotels, with the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, and with the aid of the exposition company in the manner proposed at the last meeting of the executive board, could greatly relieve the situation.

Mr. Inman told of several propositions that had been made to parties for hotel building, but he said that he did not think it was wise to build 400 rooms adjacent to the exposition grounds. He said that he thought if the hotel builders could get the right rent for their hotels, they would put up temporary hotels. He announced that he would give rent for the vacant rooms of the Peters building on Mitchell street.

It was finally decided that the canvass of the city should be made right away. It will be put in the hands of a good man, probably Mr. H. G. Saunders, the city directory editor, and he will be instructed to make a reliable canvass of the city just as soon as possible. A subcommittee, consisting of Messrs. Adair, English, Rice and Dodd, was appointed to select a headquarters for the public comfort department, to select a chief, and to select a man to superintend the canvass and to push the work ahead with as much dispatch as possible.

This afternoon at the meeting of the executive committee an application for an appropriation of $2,000 or $2,500 will be made. The money to be expended in defraying the expenses of the public comfort department.

The public comfort department will hereafter be a fixture in the exposition. A large office will be engaged, a chief selected and it will be kept open until after the closing of the exposition. The canvass will be the first thing in order, and this will be made at once.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS AND FORECAST
At the time of last evening's observation barometric pressure was high along the Atlantic coast, it gradually decreased to the westward, where a long, narrow trough in moderate pressure extends from the upper Missouri valley southward into Texas. These conditions have given light and scattered showers in the upper part of the Rocky mountains. Cloudiness was general and at the time of observation rain was falling at Charlotte, N. C., Galveston, Tex., and Huron, S. D. The area of greatest heat, containing temperatures of 80 degrees, was between Dodge City, Kan., to San Antonio, Tex.

Forecast for Georgia today: Fair, except showers in north portion; stationary temperature.

CONSUME SOUP.—1 chicken, 2 pounds lean beef, 1 onion, 1 turnip, 2 carrots, bunch sweet herbs, and cold water, in cup sugar soaked in cold water, pepper and salt. Cut beef in strips and joint chicken, slice vegetables, chop herbs, put all on with water to cook slowly for 6 hours. Take out chicken and beef; salt and pepper and put into jar. Strain soup, pulp vegetables through a sieve. Season and divide it, pouring 1/2 on meat, jar, and this in 2 hours more. Heat the rest and skim; put in sage, simmer for 1/2 hour, then pour out. When hours have passed, pour out stock in bowl; when cold put on ice.

GREEN PEA SOUP.—Put 2 quarts green peas with 4 quarts water, boil 1 hour, keeping steam supplied by fresh boiling water—strain them from liquor, return that to pot, rub the peas through sieve, chop an onion fine, and small sprig mint, let boil 10 minutes, stir a tablespoonful soup into 2 of butter, add pepper and salt to taste, stir smoothly into boiling soup. Serve with well buttered appetizers of toasted bread.

MACARONI OR VERMICELLI SOUP.—Two small carrots, 4 onions, 2 turnips, 2 cloves, 1 tablespoonful salt; pepper to taste.

ROYAL HERB-MARJORAM, parsley and thyme. Any cooked or uncooked meat. Put soup bones in water, add cold water, in cup sugar soaked in cold water, pepper and salt. Cut beef in strips and joint chicken, slice vegetables, chop herbs, put all on with water to cook slowly for 6 hours. Take out chicken and beef; salt and pepper and put into jar. Strain soup, pulp vegetables through a sieve. Season and divide it, pouring 1/2 on meat, jar, and this in 2 hours more. Heat the rest and skim; put in sage, simmer for 1/2 hour, then pour out. When hours have passed, pour out stock in bowl; when cold put on ice.

SCOTCH SHORT BROTHER.—Time, 2 1/2 hours; 6 pounds neck of mutton, 3 quarts water, 1 onion, 1 turnip, 2 carrots, 4 tablespoonfuls Scotch barley; a little salt. Soak mutton in water for an hour, cut off fat, put in stewing water, add 3 quarts of water. As soon as it boils skim well and then simmer for 1 1/2 hours. Cut best end of mutton into cutlets, dividing it with 2 bones in each; take off nearly all fat before you put it into broth; skin the mutton—wards; add carrots, turnips and onions; stir in Scotch barley; add salt to taste, let all stew together for 3 1/2 hours; about 1/2 an hour before sending it to table, put in little chopped parsley and serve.

POISON NOT THERE.

That Will Be the Opinion of State Chemist George Payne.

HE GAVE A CAT A GOOD DOSE OF IT

The Mother of the Dead Children Thinks There Was Some Mistake—Much Excitement in the Neighborhood.

A partial analysis of the medicine supposed to have caused the death of the little children on Marietta street was made yesterday by State Chemist George F. Payne.

From the result so far ascertained in the analysis and an experiment made upon a cat Dr. Payne is led to believe that the death of the children was due entirely to natural causes.

Scott Sowers, the father of the little boy and girl who died so suddenly, and their mother are still of the belief that the dose was fatal and contained poison.

As soon as he could yesterday morning Coroner Paden, in whose hands the medicine was placed, took a trip to the capitol and waited for Dr. Payne, who came in shortly after his arrival. The coroner reviewed the case to Dr. Payne.

He told him of the little children, Roy and Ruby Sowers, whose father was a well-known and hard working brickmason. Both of the children had been sick some time with measles; but had grown worse, Dr. Brooks had been summoned and found that both had developed symptoms of pneumonia.

Saturday afternoon he wrote out a prescription. It was carried to Ingram's drug store, on Peachtree street, where it was filled out by J. W. Hawkins. That night the medicine was given. Soon afterward both children fell into a deep sleep, while the mother watched anxiously by the bedside, happy that the effects of the dose had been so speedy and soothing.

For some time they slept. The little girl woke up and began to call for water in a wild way. She soon became delirious and her dangerous condition was at once seen by the parents. Dr. Brooks was sent for. Before he arrived the boy woke up and in the same way began to call for water. He, too, became delirious. The doctor arrived, but the condition of the girl was hopeless. In fifteen minutes after she had waked up she was a corpse. The little boy began to sink rapidly. Fifteen minutes after his sister had died he, too, was cold in death.

All of these facts were explained by the coroner and Dr. Payne agreed to give the medicine which was handed him a careful analysis.

He went to work at once and from a partial tests made has not yet been able to discover anything but the ingredients prescribed by the doctor.

Three Physic to the Cat.
Dr. Payne had a large pussy cat about his office upon which he decided to experiment with the dose supposed to be fatal. The feline was captured, her jaws propped open and a large dose of the physic poured down.

Beyond a wry face at the taste of the liquid the cat has shown no ill effects. During the afternoon it was watched but was as animated as usual and there was not the slightest indication that it was suffering from poison of any kind.

This is always a convincing test in regard to poisons.

"I looked into the mixture some today," said Dr. Payne last night. "From what I have learned since the death of the children was not due to anything they had taken in the medicine. The cat to which I gave a large dose of the same medicine still lives. If there was one-half, or even less than that, of the poison there which is thought to have killed the children I am sure the animal would have died before this."

"I shall finish the examination of the drugs, however, and make a full report upon them."

Almost Crazed with Grief.
Mrs. Sowers, the mother of the children, is almost crazed with grief. She still believes there was something in the medicine which caused their death.

"My children seemed all right," she said, "until they woke up from the sleep which they went into after they had taken that medicine. As soon as I got the bottle I gave them the dose which the doctor told me to give them and then they both went straight to sleep."

"Ruby woke up and she asked for water. That is what Roy did, too, when he woke up. Both of them began to talk out of their heads. My little boy looked at his papa, who was standing by the bed, and said: 'Papa, your face is as black as a nigger's. What makes it that way?' I saw that it was his mind that was deranged, different from what they had been."

"I am sure that something was the matter with the medicine. It must have been put in there accidentally by some drug store or they wouldn't have both acted that way and died right at the same time."

Mrs. Sowers says that she is glad that the dose was not given to the other little child who is also very sick.

The brickmason, who is a man highly respected in the neighborhood, is of the opinion that the children were taken to the street to die, and that the doctor put in there accidentally by some drug store or they wouldn't have both acted that way and died right at the same time."

Things It Was Pneumonia.
Dr. E. L. Brooks, the attending physician, is well known in Atlanta, and his skill in the profession is acknowledged by his brother physicians. He has been called to the city by the coroner, and yesterday afternoon just after the funeral, the people were in knots on the street about the house desecrated what caused the death of the little ones.

There is still great excitement in the locality, and yesterday afternoon just after the funeral, the people were in knots on the street about the house desecrated what caused the death of the little ones.

NAPOLEON,

ONCE ASKED FOR AN OPINION, Gives a Graphic Description of His Ideal Woman. Mothers Please Note.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

In response to a question asked by a lady, the great Napoleon replied,—

"My ideal woman is not the beautiful society belle, whose physician tries in vain to keep her in repair, nor the fragile butterfly of fashion, who gilds the tortures of disease with a forced smile."

"No! my ideal is a woman who has accepted her being as a sacred trust, and who obeys the laws of nature for the preservation of her body and soul."

"Do you know, my knee involuntarily bends in homage when I meet the matron who reaches middle age in complete preservation."

"That woman is rendered beautiful by perfect health, and the stalwart children by her side are her reward. That's my ideal woman."

Who goes to ideal womanhood the girlhood should be carefully guarded. Nature has provided a time for purification; and if the channels are obstructed the entire system is poisoned, and misery comes.

At a mothers' meeting the wife of a noted New York divine said to her listeners: "Watch carefully your daughters' physical development. Mothers should see that Nature is assisted, if necessary, to perform its office, and keep their daughters well informed as to matters concerning themselves."

Irregularities of organic trouble, with irregularities come disturbance of the stomach and kidneys. Violent headaches often attack the victim; pains shoot every-where. Extreme irritability follows quickly, and then utter despondency overwhelms the already over-burdened life.

Unless the obstruction is removed at once, your daughter's whole future will be darkened. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will accomplish the work speedily. It is the most effective remedy for irregular or suspended action known.

CAME WITH A BLONDE

Knowlton, the Chicago Crook, Made the Trip South with a Female Sharper.

NOW HE GOES BACK WITH A DETECTIVE

The Officer Says That the Young Man Is Badly Wanted, but Knowlton Says He Is Innocent of All Charges.

Cornick, the Chicago detective, and Knowlton, the Chicago crook, got out from Atlanta last night at 8 o'clock.

The detective says the crook has a record that threatens to send him to the penitentiary for a long term. The crook tells the detective he is a "blasted liar," and that he will find upon his return home that he has made the trip for nothing.

The case has taken an interesting turn, however, not so much as to the crookedness of Knowlton as it has to a fair-haired companion who came south with him and who is also wanted by the Chicago authorities.

Since the arrival of Cornick, he has found that Knowlton left the north with a dizzy blonde, who was a shoplifter of note. It is said that she is a remarkably handsome woman and has an appearance that would deceive the most experienced. When the first telegram was received at police headquarters concerning Knowlton, it mentioned the fact that he was in company with a woman also wanted, but the detectives after the arrest of the young man could get no trace of her, and at the house where he stopped it was decided that there had ever been a woman of such description there.

The officer from Chicago says, however, that he has positive information that the woman came here and the local detectives will make an effort to locate her.

How Knowlton Worked. Cornick, who is an astute officer with a red head and a large nose, says that he can name seventy-five cases of a similar character which could be brought out against the young man under his charge.

"He had the furnished room plan," said Cornick. "You see, it was this way. The guy would go to a hotel, dress up nicely, take an empty satchel along with him and ask for a room. Then he would get on to the lay of the house and when all was fixed off with a good load of goods, that was his style.

"Now, he's wanted on another charge. You see it was this way. He went down the street one night, Indiana avenue, I think it was. There was a man coming on. The duck didn't do a thing but pull out his gun and call for what he had. He got away with pocketbook that had a big roll of bills in it. That's what I have an indictment against him for highway robbery, and a bad case it is, too."

The detective gives a long account of the crooked work of the window dresser. "Hope I can get that woman who came with him," he added.

"I've had the boy before, you know, I was the officer that caught him when he went up before. He went to a hotel, got a seakins cloak, soaked it for $50 and took in the town. I got him next day and he went up for a year. Knowlton ain't no angel."

"I could swear a thousand times," says Knowlton, "that I am not guilty of these charges which the detective has brought against me. I am going back and prove it."

Introduction of "Splits."

"Split" is a term used in England for a half-pint bottle, which is likely to become Americanized, because Apollinaris water is now being introduced here, and bid fair to be as well known and popular on this side as they are in England. The bottling of Apollinaris water in half-pint or "splits" is said to be due to the prince of Wales, who expressed a wish to receive the water in bottles of this size. Apollinaris "splits" have since become a feature in the London clubs. Many people when not wanting as much as a pint, will be glad to receive a half-pint bottle instead of a glass, thus being sure to obtain the water fresh and genuine.

The Truth of History.

John Temple Graves and Henry Waterson could both of them have got the true and authentic facts in relation to the Hampton Roads Peace Conference in a moment by referring to the "Larned's History of the United States" in "Larned's History of the United States." In five imperial volumes, alphabetically arranged, just leaving the printer's hands and, therefore, up to date, it is creating a great sensation in the world of history. Indorsed by such well-known authority as Dr. C. S. Hopkins, and one who purchased a set for himself and one for the Technological school, and who believes that it will prove invaluable to every student, it is being subscribed for by the best people of the state. The history, extending to all countries and subjects, is especially interesting at this time. The histories of China and Japan especially are up to date. The full text of the Monroe doctrine is accessible in a moment. It will pay every lawyer, minister, college, school teacher and professional man to write for circulars, prices and terms to A. C. Webster, agent state of Georgia, care Markham house, Atlanta, Ga.

A VETERAN'S STORY

Gen. Catlin Praises Munyon for His Great Work

His Restoration to Health Due to the Wonderful Little Sugar Pellets.

General A. B. Catlin, formerly deputy surveyor of the port of New York, is a veteran of the army and a well-known republican politician.

"I have been troubled with catarrh for many years," said General Catlin. "I doctored for it a great deal, but did not obtain any material relief and this winter my condition was terrible. I took cold easily and my nose became stopped up. I had severe pains across the front of my head, my eyes became watery. I sneezed a great deal, and my bones and joints ached continually. When I got up in the morning my throat was filled with a nasty slime, which dropped there during the night. I had to have a great deal of this made me gag and often vomit. There was a roaring and buzzing in my ears and my breath was very offensive. I lost my appetite, ran down in weight and became depressed in spirits.

"I tried thoroughly several of the best physicians, so called, in New York, took patent nostrums of all descriptions, but grew worse all the time.

"Finally I began Munyon's Catarrh Remedy. I thought it was no use, and had but little faith, but I began to improve right away. My disease rapidly yielded to the remedy, and I underwent a change that was wonderful. Within a short time I was entirely cured. The last traces of the hideous disease had vanished, and today my friends are marveling at the great change in me. It is a wonderful relief to feel strong and healthy again, and it gives me great pleasure to testify that my restoration to health is due to Munyon's Catarrh Remedy.

"Munyon's Homeopathic Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up a cure for every disease. No matter what the disease is or how many doctors have failed to cure you, ask your druggist for a 25-cent vial of one of Munyon's cures, and if you are not benefited your money will be refunded.

"Those who are in doubt as to the nature of their disease should address Professor Munyon, 155 Arch street, Philadelphia, giving full symptoms of their disease. Professor Munyon will carefully diagnose the case and give you the benefit of his advice absolutely free of all charge. The Remedies will be sent to any address on receipt of retail price.
